

December 10, 1982.

Mr. Secretary of State
George F. Shultz
Department of State
Washington.

Sir:

I wish to express my indignation at a recent feature article on Armenian massacres which appeared in the August 1982 issue of the Department of State Bulletin, which in several places casts doubt on the historical reality of the Armenian Genocide committed by the Turkish Government in 1915-1917. The final "Note" of the article states that "The Department of State does not endorse any statement that the Turkish Government committed a genocide" is an outrageous statement which can only be meant to appease the Turkish Government and is not worthy of a country like ours.

I consider that such practices debase the reputation and moral quality of our institutions and are, moreover, insulting to the memory of our million and a half martyrs. I request that immediate steps be taken to correct this shameful distortion of historic facts.

Respectfully yours,

I like to bring to your attention the statement that our State Department made recently that "Armenian Genocide" by Turkey was not true. This is the flagrant distortion of established facts. Genocide did occur 1915 and there are undeniable, and unrefutable proofs in all archives of all powers. Please see that Truth is not sacrificed for expediency.

Respectfully yours,

Congressional Relations
Department of State
Washington, D. C. 20520

Dear Mr. Moore:

I am enclosing, for you, a copy of a letter I have just received from

President of my congressional district, who is concerned over the American Revolution of 1915.

Letter is, I believe, self-explanatory, and I would appreciate your consideration and attention to the same.

Needless to say, I shall be most grateful for any response that I may then forward to Mr. [redacted] and the official State Department [redacted] this [redacted].

Thank you in advance for your response, and your best wishes.
